MORRISON

LIFE IN OKLAHOMA

How The Republican Is Appreciated by Former Residents Now In Distant State.

Editor of the Republican:

My father, W. B. Morrison, was a subscriber to the Chronicle. The first issue of the new paper reached us on Saturday morning; its appearance was that of a big city daily, but filled every inch with good substantial reaching matter, concerning the Marshall County people, towns and rural districts. We were all glad to get the Chronicle, although sometimes rather late. It reached us in Indiana Territory, Colorado, Oregon, and several points in California.

Because the patrons of a paper are quit and never send in good words of praise is on reason for the editor to feel that his paper is not appreciated. Many pleased readers are like those who would like to talk in the testimonial meeting—the spirit is there, but the words are lacking. And now, comes the Republican, regenerated, many times since 1851.

I have just reread the old Marshall County History published in 1881, very highly prized by my mother and also my grandfather, John Jacoby, now in the Beyond. I find that the first paper published in Plymouth was about the middle of the 19th century, under the name of "Pilot," then Banner, the Marshall county Republican, each bearing its burdens under the management of able newspaper men, some of whom have long since passed over. Next was the Plymouth Republican since 1878 under John W. Seiders, and from 1879 with Ed S. Brooke and later in 1901 seemingly passed into the realm of the forgotten. But now it is born again.

The doings of the Marshall county people are of importance, and of interest to Marshall county people in every part of the United States, army and navy, foreign countries and in civilized heathen lands.

The farm experiments tests speeches, sermon, etc., can and are well made into a part of some other state. The address of Mr. Chas. Heim at the Farmer's Institute is not only applicable for that immediate vicinity but to everywhere, where agriculture is followed.

As regards the small farm, there are many of them in Oklahoma. We live on a five acre tract, in a five acre neighborhood. I know of families that get their living and educate their children on these small acreages with but very little outside helps, now and then an occasional chance to rent some other five acre.

It would seem strange in this new state with a acres and acres of virgin prairies, that so many should confine themselves to so small a tract. It is like this, in most of the towns or cities of the state—the idea was speculation. Everything would be worth more a little later on so all around the corporate limits, except minor Indian lands, was platted into tracts which would sell to the best advantage, that being the five, six and ten acre lots, sold at a profit and nearer in reach of the small man that wanted to get rich, and yet not be out of a home and a chance of sustenance on account of not investing his small amount where it would be a quick turn. As a result, the outlying districts are improved into garden spots, the schools are more than full, and plenty of people to fill all the churches.

The time is true of California near the cities where I have observed for myself.

One advantage here is the mild climate, a saving of fuel, which might be an item to figure into the small farm proposition, but coal costs about the same everywhere. I would say, no matter how small your farm in Marshall county, don't sell it for the chance of getting one some where else. That little spot will amply produce if properly turned to the right crops, besides being a home.

Oklahoma is now getting a long wanted rain. My mother left yesterday for Colorado Springs to be with my brother Ross, who has been ill for nearly two years, with probable tuberculosis or "bug" as most of the "lungers" call it. He has been at different Sanitariums and under Specialists' care; it seems that this is the result left from typhoid fever, which probably settled in the liver or spleen and later caused the lungs to be infected. Since last June until November the case responded to the climatic cure, but during the winter he has had to try something else. For two months he has taken medicated oxygen by inhalation, which gets rid of the bacilli and heals the diseased areas without incapsulating as does the climatic cure to break out again at another time. He says that he is improving under this treatment.

Very Truly,
Earl B. Morrison,
Shawnee, Oklahoma
Pottawatomie County.

INSPECTION OF CHILDREN TO BE OPTIONAL

SENATE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION AMENDS MEASURE
INTRODUCED BY SENATOR MCCARTY

EFFECTIVE IN 1913

Many Pupils In Schools Are Afflicted—Waste of School Funds—Reduction of Disease.

Indianapolis, Jan. 26.—The Senate committee on education has acted on the school inspection bill introduced by Senator Milton T. McCarty, of Frankfort, and has amended the measure so as to make its provisions optional instead of compulsory.

The way is opened for the adoption of the plan of school inspection by school corporations that favor it. The bill is based upon the fact that 40 per cent of the school children examined are said to be afflicted with defects or disease which reduce their efficiency, which it is claimed could be reduced or eradicated by the employment of medical inspection.

By medical inspection of school children is meant that they shall have their sight and hearing tested and be examined for the presence of disease, disabilities, decayed teeth and other defects which may reduce the efficiency of the child. By the bill all school trustees may institute medical inspection in 1913 for the purpose of carrying out the rules which the measure provides are to be drafted by the state board of health and the state department of education.

A school physician is to be appointed who shall make an examination of school children. On finding a child defective in any way it shall be his duty to inform the parent and advise the family physician be consulted. In case the parents are not financially able to give the necessary aid it shall be the duty of the physician to inform the township trustee who shall provide such relief.

"Two million of dollars are lost annually in the state of Indiana by defects and diseases of children in the public schools, all of which is the result of preventable causes. From the standpoint of economy the cost of school inspection would be a mere pittance and the experience of other states shows that medical inspection does pay.

"In Massachusetts it has been shown that school epidemics have been greatly reduced and the defective children that have been discovered are being helped."
